YULETIDE SEASON OF MUSIC OPENS

"The Messiah" Presented by Washington Oratorio Society at Masonic Temple.

The first note of the Yuletide season was sung last evening at New Masonic Auditorium, when the Washington Oratorio Society, Charles S. Wenger, conducting, presented Handel's immortal oratorio, "The Messiah," before an audience that, in spite of the demands of the preholiday season, was generous both in size and in its manifestations of appreciation.

The exacting solo parts were intrusted to four Washington artists, Netta Craig, soprano; Flora McGill Keefe, mezzo-soprano; Victor Gollbart, tenor; and Charles T. Tittmann, bass, and a more satisfying ensemble of soloists has rarely been heard in the city. Much interest centered in the appearance in oratorio of Victor Gollbart, who has recently returned to Washington after several years of study in New York city.

His clear tenor voice sustained the appointed arias with reverent spirit and with a fine art in phrasing, being especially effective in "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart," which he invested with great pathos. Mrs.
Keefe has a voice of pleasing quality and sings with ease and persuasion, her distinct enunciation making her every phrase a direct message to the hearer. Her excellent legato and her sincere reading of the arias "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "He Was Despised" being among her most effective offerings.

Miss Craig sang well.
Miss Craig again proved herself an oratorio singer of distinction, sentencing all her numbers from memory, her lovely lyric voice seemed to lend itself equally well to the happy interpretation of "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion," the tender appeal of "Come Unto Him All Ye That Labor and the triumphant spirit of "Know That My Redeemer Liveth," which was given with deep religious fervor.

Mr. Tittmann is no essentially an oratorio singer and gave a sincere, dramatic and artistic delivery of the bass arias.

His clear-cut vocalization in the aria, "The People That Walked in Darkness," would have been a credit to the most accomplished coloratura soprano without in the least detracting from the dignity and resonance of his tone quality. Mr. Wenger proved himself a conductor of resources in leading his singers through the intricacies of the various choruses, than which none in the field of oratorios presents more difficulties.
Harvey Murray, at the organ, was, as always, a most satisfying artist, supplementing the work of both soloists and chorus with highest efficiency and playing the beautiful "Pastoral Symphony" as effectively as the limited possibilities of the organ permitted.

Miss Helen Nash, who presided at the piano, is one of Washington's most talented young musicians and plays with academic accuracy. She gave admirable support to the chorus, but her work sometimes marred the effect of the soloists by a too blatant tone and an extremely rapid tempo.

Personnel of Chorus.

The personnel of the chorus includes: Robert C. Starr, president; Mrs. H. Clyde Grimes, vice president; Mrs. Finch, secretary; John A. Gal-

G. P. O. GETS TURKEYS FROM PHILADELPHIA

Prices Here Too High, 10,000 Pounds Are Ordered From Quaker City.

Ten thousand pounds of fresh-killed, hand-picked turkeys will arrive in Washington tomorrow via a freight car from Philadelphia to provide Christmas dinners for employees of the government printing office.
Officials of the printing cafeteria contracted with Philadelphia dealers to supply the turkeys upon failure to obtain a satisfactory price in Washington.

Although the Thanksgiving wholesale price for turkeys charged at the government printing office for some time around two tons of the native fowl was only 47 cents, the quotations received from local dealers for the Christmas birds had risen to 87 cents when the bids were asked. The result was that the cafeteria association entered the Philadelphia market and received a price of 55 cents a pound delivered in Washington.
The birds are en route. The price to employees of the shop will be 54 cents per pound, to care for the handling and distribution.

PARK VIEW MARKET READY FOR BUSINESS

New Enterprise Completed on Georgia Avenue—Modernly Equipped Throughout.

With completion of the new Park View market, on Georgia avenue just north of Park road, details of the enterprise have been made public by its pro-motors, the Morris Cadette Company.
The market is said to have business space equal to about one-half of the Center market proper.

The ground on which the improvement was located had presented a problem to investors, because of its depth, the price at which it was held virtually precluding erection of an ordinary business building affording a profitable return. The market proposition was finally determined to be the only solution.

More than 5,000 houses are situated in what is known as the Park View section, and until now no additional market facilities have been provided.
Representative business men in every line have established themselves in the new market to supply this trade.
George H. Campbell, long connected with the Center market in an executive capacity, will be general superintendent of the Park View market.
Applications for space have been ten times as great as the accommodations available, it is reported.

The market has been provided with all modern equipment and numerous conveniences. It was designed by Harvey H. Warwick, architect, in consultation with several engineers. The building is featured by its lighting arrangements, permitting a flood of daylight. It has the latest type re-frigerating plant, adequate ventilation, plenty of aisle space and special sanitary facilities.

The completed structure required an investment of approximately $350,000, it is stated.

PLAN TO BROADEN WORK OF SCHOOL PRINCIPALS

The scope of the work of the administrative principals of the public schools will be broadened under a plan proposed by Supt. Ballou, which will be outlined to the officers by Alexander T. Stuart, director of intermediate instruction, at a conference this afternoon in the Franklin School.

It is the intention of Dr. Ballou that the administrative principals take over some of the duties of the superintending principals by making a detailed study of the work in each classroom under their direct supervision, and familiarize themselves thoroughly with this work.
The plan, it is said, is designed to dovetail into Dr. Ballou's scheme to gradually relieve the superintending principals of some of their numerous duties and make them assistant superintendents of schools.
